

Cowan Pledges 20% Of Commissions To Clients' Charities Of Choice

Veteran real estate broker Roni Cowan, Vice President, Fox Residential Group, is donating 20 percent of the commissions she receives on all her residential sales to the charity of choice of the customer for whom the sale is made. Well known for her work on the Upper East Side, Ms. Cowan's sales have included cooperative, condominium and townhouses of all sizes, and in all price ranges.

"Having been fortunate in both my life and career, I have decided to share a portion my earnings to help others," says Ms. Cowan. "When I sell someone's home or help a buyer find a new one, it is inherently rewarding for all parties involved. But by taking it a step further, I can show my appreciation in truly meaningful ways by giving to my customers' favorite charitable causes."

A native New Yorker and 25-year Manhattanite, Ms. Cowan is a long-term volunteer at Memorial Sloane-Kettering Cancer Center and does pet therapy at Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Founded by Barbara Fox in 1989, Fox Residential Group is an exclusive boutique brokerage firm specializing in the sale of upscale residential properties throughout Manhattan. Located on Madison Avenue and 79th Street, Fox Residential Group has a sales staff of 42 experienced brokers.
